

DimensioneX

Contributed by Dondor
Sunday, 17 February 2008

Have it ever crossed your mind while you are playing an online game that the game is not as challenging as you thought it would be or that you would be able to come up with a more exciting and interesting game?

Well with DimensioneX that is exactly what you can do &ndash; create, develop and run your own online videogame and the game can be of any kind &ndash; role-playing, adventure, turn-based like chess and many others. DimesioneX is actually an open source software kit and a multiplayer game engine which gives the opportunity, facilities as well as crucial help for interested potential game designers to develop their very own online video game. And the online games can be enjoyed by users around the world simply via their own browser. Doesn't it sound great? But what is greater is that since DimensioneX aims to help potential video game designers around the globe use their talents while sharing the fun with the net community, everything that they provide on the website are free of charge.

Everything that you need in order to develop your own online game is available on the website. The website has been created well making it easy for users to navigate and find the required relevant information. Developing your own game on DimesioneX is easy and does not require you to own a programming degree, as the instructions are simple and easy to understand, there is also a resources list of reference material and articles, step by step tutorials and videos to help you out. There is also a latest news tab to keep you updated with the latest releases and a support tab to address any queries from the users. What an interested user has to do to start developing their own game is to download the DimensioneX kit, and for practice a user can modify the games that come with the kit. Users can sign up as members, subscribe to DimesitoneX electronic newsletter, and utilize the DimensioneX forum in getting to know as well as sharing tips with other game designers. Once the game is created, DimensioneX would even host it for free for other gamers to enjoy it and the developers name would even be posted on the DimensioneX project contributors page.

DimensioneX opens up a new world for potential game designers as well as for gamers. Other FAQs on DimensioneX can be found here.

So what's stopping you? &ndash; be a proud creator of a new and exciting web game now!